THE PLATES

OF

THE ORIENTAL COINS,

Ancient & Modern

OF THE

COLLECTION OF THE LATE WILLIAM MARSDEN I R S,

ETC ETC

ENGRAVED FROM DRAWINGS MADE UNDER HIS DIRECTION

LONDON

TRUBNER & CO, 60, PATERNOSTER ROW

ADVERTISEMENT.

MESSES. TRÜBNER & Co. have recently purchased the original Copper Plates, which so truthfully and effectively illustrated the single edition of Marsden's grand work, the "NUMISMATA ORIENTALIA," (London, 1825). These Engravings were especially commended to the discerning public of the day, by the knowledge that their conspicuous merit was due to the associate labour of an artist wife and a critically instructed husband, who superintended the manipulation of a patient and conscientious engraver—a combination which secured for them the world-wide reputation which has been maintained over the advanced knowledge of our own time. So that in 1869, apart from their more ample range, they may freely challenge any parallel series to a competition in the effective reproduction of the spirit and characteristics of the coins depicted; though, naturally, with modern mechanical appliances, objection might be taken to the rough shading, or less scenic effect of the early conventional drawing; yet nothing that we produce in modern art, can at all approach the severe rendering of the legends, or the individual niceties of detail, that reassert themselves so prominently on a comparison of the plates with the coins they represent, which are now open to inspection (under Marsden's own bequest) in the British Museum.

The present exceptional course of publishing plates, without any descriptive text or commentary, may require explanation; but there need be no reserve in stating, that the essential value of the Plates, which many practised Numismatists have coveted for long past (Copies of the now exhausted edition of the NUMISMATA ORIENTALIA having been selling at positively prohibitive prices), may cause them to be gladly welcomed at a reasonable cost, but beyond this, the present limited issue is avowedly put forth, on the part of the publishers, with a view to test the predilections of Antiquarians of the present age, and should sufficient encouragement be given to this experiment, Messrs Trubner & Co have arranged for a complete and exhaustive compilation, bringing the first portion of the old work not only up to present exigencies, but embracing within the limits of a concise review, a complete corpus of all the Kufic muntages of the Moslem dynasties hitherto made public—an undertaking to be further extended to the preparation of a more perfect compendium of the later, or Indian Section of the original, in a Second Volume should commensurate support attend the previous tentative publications
